Prayers answered

BY LAWRENCE JOHN
lawrence.john@hpnorthants.co.uk

The battle to find Northampton's very own 'GI Joey' a bone marrow match is over.

His mum, Kaisha Morris, shed tears of joy when she was told by the consultant that a match had been found for little Joey Ziadi.

She admitted it was the moment 'her prayers had been answered'.

Two-year-old Joey has rare Diamond-Blackfan anaemia and is one of only 800 people in the world who has it.

Speaking exclusively to the Herald & Post, Kaisha said: "What this all means is my prayers have been answered, that is the only way I can sum it all up.

"I was so numb when I heard this great news.

"I did not tell my mum or dad for two days.

"It was such a shock and while it is the end of one road it is the start of another adventure as we have to see how the transplant will work.

"I shed loads of tears as I thought I was going to be told about Joey's liver results and I just could not control myself.

"The medical opinion is to hold off doing a transplant for at least another 12 months to make sure his liver is in the best condition so they can carry out his bone marrow transplant."

Accused tells of his 'bond' with India

A man accused of raping and murdering a Northampton barmaid yesterday claimed she placed his hands on her neck while they had 'loving' sex at his house.

On the seventh day of his trial at Birmingham Crown Court, Edward Tenniswood, 52, gave his account of what happened the night India Chipchase, 20, died after meeting him outside NB's nightclub in Bridge Street on January 30.

He told the court they had 'bonded' after being refused entry.

The jury had previously heard how the accused, who invited India to his house in St James where her body was found, had once bragged he was 'trained to kill'. Mr Tenniswood denies all charges. ■ Full story on p7

Editor's Letter

It's never her fault: Stop the blaming of female victims

IF you follow The Sun on Twitter, you may have seen a tweet last week about a 'woman' who 'drank six Jagerbombs in ten minutes on the night she was raped and murdered'.

The name of that 'woman' was India Chipchase.

Many of you will have known her, or at least known of her.

She was a student at the University of Northampton, she worked in The Collingtree pub and she leaves behind a loving boyfriend and family.

She was just 20 years old when police officers found her body on a mattress in the home of Edward Tenniswood.

Mr Tenniswood is now on trial for her rape and murder, but we do not yet have an answer to the question of who assaulted her and ended her life.

One thing we can be sure of after The Sun's tweet is that the insidious culture which allows women to be blamed for the actions of their attackers is alive and well.

It is a culture we must challenge every time it rears its ugly head, and thousands of Twitter users did just that this week.

The only person to blame for the murder of a young woman is a murderer

The law does not recognise being drunk as an excuse for rape, nor does it accept that rape is 'less serious' because the victim was wearing a short skirt.

A judge would never accept 'she was asking for it' as a defence.

Like hundreds of other young men and women, India had been drinking in town on the night of her death.

Unlike hundreds of others, her night ended in unspeakable tragedy.

This is not a story about Jagerbombs or drinking culture. This is a story about rape and murder.

The only person to blame for the rape of a young woman is a rapist.

The only person to blame for the murder of a young woman is a murderer.

She, whoever she may be, has never asked for it.

£6k for bag of dusty old coins

BY NICHOLAS BIEBER
nicholas.bieber@hpnorthants.co.uk

A woman took a bag of coins she found in a drawer to an auction house – only to find they were 22 carat gold and worth thousands of pounds.

On a recent valuation day at Daventry Museum, Towcester-based JP Humbert Auctioneers was looking at a small amount of jewellery for the woman – with expert Rupert Pink valuing the items at a few hundred pounds.

After the woman agreed to put the items up for auction, she then got out a bag which she said contained some 'old brass coins' that she had found in the drawer. But Mr Pink said when the 30 coins came out of the bag it turned out that they were not in fact brass at all, but rather 22 carat gold, and each a full British sovereign.

"When I told the lady what the coins were, she really couldn't believe it and said that they felt like a gift from her late husband, from beyond the grave," he said.

"Apparently she never knew of their existence until she was clearing out the chest of drawers prior to moving into a residential home for the elderly. Her late husband must have put them there some years ago." Having valued the coins at around £200 each they went under the hammer where auctioneer Jonathan Humbert sold them for more than £6,000 in total.

The auctioneers will return to Daventry Museum for its next valuation day from 2pm-4pm on Wednesday August 3 where there will be a focus on gold and silver.

Poo in public pool forces shut down

A leisure centre was forced to close its swimming pool for most of the day after poo was found in the water.

The pool at the Nene Centre (pictured), in Thrapston near Kettering, was closed at around 8am on Monday morning after red-faced staff spotted the 'object'.

A clean-up operation got underway, and was expected to take six hours to complete because the offending item was found broken up in the water.

Chris Tye, the group operations manager at Aspirations Wellbeing which runs the centre, said he was 'frustrated' by the unsavoury incident.

Dive in the pool and get swim fit

Former Blue Peter presenter Gethin Jones talks about free swimming sessions

Former Blue Peter presenter Gethin Jones is calling on people across Northamptonshire to make a splash as he wants them to dive in and get swimming.

On Sunday, the all-action television presenter was at the Virgin Active Riverside Business Park in Northampton as part of his role as Speedo Ambassador to encourage more people to take to the pool for fun or to get fit.

A year ago, Gethin took up a challenge of his own when he underwent a six week training programme created by advisory Speedo coach Dan Bullock as part of the Get Speedo Fit Campaign. Gethin had to swim three/ four times a week for 60 minutes each session.

By the end of the six week period he had improved his aerobic fitness by 13 per cent, arm and leg strength by just under 15 per cent and flexibility by one fifth.

Following on from his personal success Gethin hopes he can encourage others to take up their own swimming challenge and to take advantage of a free swim at their local pool thanks to Speedo.

Speaking to the Northants Herald & Post while in Northampton, Gethin said: "When I first started my challenge I swam eight lengths and found I was out of breath.

"But with a few changes to my swimming stroke I started to get better and more efficient in the water.

"By the end of the six weeks the results were excellent.

"I felt mentally alert and stronger and when I went on a 10k run I achieved my fastest ever time.

"What I hope I have done today is to have encouraged others to have a go.

"I would like to think if people took up swimming they would feel better and by doing a 30 minute swim they will have used up 350 calories which is equal to one hour of exercise out of the water.

"While in Northampton today, one lady went under the water for the first time in her life. For her it was a momentous occasion and now she is hooked and wanted to go swimming.

"What has been great today is people of all ages have come along which was great to see."

Gethin said his message to people was to have a go, if they enjoy swimming they should keep it up but if they try it and don't like it then that is also fine.

He added: "I would say to people log onto the Speedo website at www.speedo.co.uk/dive-in.

"You have until the end of October to have a go so why not give swimming a go you will feel incredible."

By signing up on the website you will be able to enjoy a free swim in the county as Speedo is offering 10,000 free swim sessions for adults at local leisure centres nationwide.

Under the guidance of qualified instructors you'll discover the tips you need to refine your front crawl, fire up your fitness and take your swimming to the next level.

Baby dies as court says care must end

BY NICHOLAS BIEBER
nicholas.bieber@hpnorthants.co.uk

A disabled baby who had been on a ventilator since he was 18 minutes old has died after a judge decided life-support care should end.

Bosses at Northampton General Hospital had asked for permission to stop providing treatment to the three-and-a-half-month-old. The boy's parents had objected.

Mr Justice Hayden ruled in favour of hospital bosses late on Friday after analysing evidence at a hearing in the Family Division of the High Court in London. The baby died the next day. His 22-year-old mother wept as the judge announced his conclusion.

Bosses at the hospital had asked for a ruling on what was in the boy's best interests.

The baby suffered from the most severe type of spinal muscular atrophy - a hereditary condition that affects nerve cells connecting muscles to the brain and spinal cord, the court was told.

Specialists said the condition was degenerative and incurable, and the burden treatment placed on the boy outweighed any benefit. The judge was told there was no prospect of the child moving off intensive care.

The boy's mother and father argued he experienced pleasure and said his life had not yet reached the point where it should end.

Mr Justice Hayden praised the couple's devotion but said evidence showed pain was a feature of the boy's day-to-day life. He added he had to confront not merely the importance of life but also the quality.

Neither the baby nor his parents could be named.

Murder accused 'had throttled girl'

BY NICHOLAS BIEBER
nicholas.bieber@hpnorthants.co.uk

A bookkeeper accused of strangling a young woman to death had previously throttled a teenage girl and tried to forcibly kiss her, a court has heard.

The body of India Chipchase, 20, was discovered at Edward Tenniswood's house 36 hours after she met him outside a nightclub in Northampton in the early hours of January 30 this year.

The 52-year-old - who denies all charges - is on trial at Birmingham Crown Court accused of raping and murdering the doctor's daughter, who worked as a barmaid at The Collingtree pub near her home in Wootton.

Mr Tenniswood promised 'don't worry, I'll get you home safe' after finding her drunk outside NB's bar before taking her back to his home in St

IN THE DOCK: Edward Tenniswood

James, jurors heard. On the seventh day of his trial yesterday, Mr Tenniswood gave his account of what happened on the night India died, and said they both had 'loving', 'consensual' sex at his house.

He said she placed his hands around her neck during the sex and 'initiated' pressure, before moving her hands away. He said he applied pressure for up to 10 seconds, before she 'spasmed'.

He told the court the pair hugged as if 'we were posing for a selfie'. He said: "The two of us were smiling in the mirror and she said 'look at that'. . . 'it looks like we're in the middle of an oil painting'."

Earlier this week, the jury was told Tenniswood once bragged to his neighbour 'I've been trained to kill with my bare hands'.

A woman also told the jury Mr Tenniswood once pushed her up against the wall, throttled her and tried to kiss her when she was a teenager.

On the sixth day of the trial, Tenniswood began giving evidence and told the jury he lived in 'squalid' conditions and wore rubber gloves most of the time because of his OCD (Obsessive Compulsive Disorder). He also admitted to keeping newspaper clippings of women who looked like his ex-girlfriends.

The trial, which is expected to last another week, continues.

'INVISIBLE KILLER': Kingsthorpe had the highest ozone levels in the country for one hour last week

Air pollution has hit 'illegal levels'

BY NICHOLAS BIEBER
nicholas.bieber@hpnorthants.co.uk

Air pollution levels on two busy roads breached the legal limit set by the European Union (EU) for almost a month, according to scientific data released by the town's Green Party this week.

Air quality sensors set up by the party show that between April 24 to May 21, nitrogen dioxide levels on Spencer Bridge Road, Northampton, hit an average of 41.51 micrograms per cubic metre (ug/m3).

And on St James Road in the town the number soared to 46.38 ug/m3 - well above the legal limit of 40 ug/m3 set by the EU.

These numbers have been put together on an interactive map by the Green Party, as part of its campaign to measure levels of air pollution across Northampton.

It comes just a week after ozone levels in Kingsthorpe hit 172 micrograms per cubic metre between 2-3pm last Tuesday - when a heatwave saw temperatures soar to more than 30C - making it the highest level in the UK in that hour and just short of the 'dangerous' hourly threshold of 180 set by the EU.

A spokesperson for the Northampton Green Party said: "Northampton has an air pollution problem. There are six areas across the town where levels of nitrogen dioxide are above legal limits, and as reported last week, monitors in Kingsthorpe have also been highlighting serious issues with ozone levels."

They added: "Better information should be made available to people in Northampton, so that we can understand the risks that are affecting our health."

Nitrogen dioxide is defined as part of a group of gaseous air pollutants produced as a result of road traffic and other fossil fuel combustion processes. Its presence in the air, combined with sunlight, contributes to the formation of ground-level ozone.

When ozone is breathed in, it can trigger a variety of health problems including chest pain, coughing, throat irritation, and airway inflammation. In the long term, it can cause lung damage.

Vigil for Kashmir victims

Members of the Muslim community in Northampton gathered on Monday night for a minute's silence and prayer to remember the victims of the ongoing violence in Indian-occupied Kashmir.

The candlelit vigil, organised by Kashmir Concern, was held at the Guildhall at 7pm in tribute to the 51 people who have so far died in protests in the region's worst outbreak of civilian unrest in six years - sparked by the death of a popular Kashmiri rebel leader.

The disputed region is claimed in its entirety by both India and Pakistan, and has become a ping-pong ball in the long-running rivalry between both countries.

Lorraine's Avon visit

TV presenter Lorraine Kelly paid a visit to the Avon headquarters in Northampton to celebrate the company's 130th anniversary.

The former Daybreak co-host, who presents her own show Lorraine, visited the HQ in Nunn Mills two weeks ago to celebrate the milestone.

She spent the afternoon meeting with staff, joining in with their summer barbecue and then finished her visit by cutting the birthday cake.

The mum-of-one had made the special visit in her new role as the ambassador of the company's ANEW skincare range.

Lavender oil

Singer Sarah Evans, who brings her acclaimed show 'A Night of Adele' to The Deco Theatre tomorrow evening always carries lavender oil with her.

Explaining why, she said: "It's very good for my throat and vocal chords, and as a singer, it is important I look after them."

"Every now and again I put a few drops into hot water and inhale."

"I never go anywhere without it."

BLOGGER OF THE WEEK

Say no to hate crimes

Cllr Rufia Ashraf

This week's blogger of the week is... Cllr Rufia Ashraf, who represents the St James ward on Northampton Borough Council.

Hate crime in Northampton is on the increase according to Police figures.

At a recent Council meeting I noted this increase in hate crime following the disastrous Brexit vote, however the Cabinet Member for Community Safety claimed this was not the case for Northampton.

I beg to disagree.

There are individuals and community members still too scared to come forward to report incidents of racist abuse.

Many still face intimidation, racist attacks and verbal abuse. I stated a fact when I said that we have been welcoming migrants to UK for many decades, my parents included, however they did not receive this type of vile abuse which has been unleashed since the Brexit result on 23rd June.

The Labour Group at the Guildhall recognises we are facing one of the biggest problems of our time which is why our motion condemning hate crime and xenophobia received cross party support. All Labour, Liberal Democrat and Conservative councillors to their credit condemned hate crime and racism.

It's sad a few ignorant people target others because they look different, their colour of skin, what they wear, language, religion or disability.

What those people don't realise its wonderful our town to be so multi-culturally diverse. We need to work together to re-educate and raise awareness because this type of behaviour and xenophobia is not acceptable in our civilised society.

I hope the Northants Police and Crime Commissioner brings back the Hate Crimes Unit.

The message is we say NO to Hate Crime.

What do you think?

Here's what our readers have had to say on Facebook to the news (p9):

SANDRA SZATKOWSKI: Ah, I don't live in Northampton but my (still undiagnosed) chest pains were really bad last week. Perhaps this helps explain why!

LOOPY LESLEY BRETT: Strangely enough since I moved into St James my respiratory problems have got worse

JADE STAPLETON: I was in hospital for chest pain last Tuesday! And stayed over night

JUDY PROUD: Lovely and that's where they want to build a waste disposal incinerator with hundreds of lorries coming and going!!!

LOUISE SMITH: Not good. The Bad press on bulldogs creating adoption crisis is a sad fact

Here's how one reader reacted to the news that there is an adoption crisis at the local RSPCA branch because of the bad publicity surrounding bull breeds:

NICKI BISLAND: This makes me so sad, why can't people get past the scare mongering and see these dogs for who they really are.

They didn't ask to be bred, they didn't ask to be abandoned they didn't ask for any of it. All they truly want to do is please their owners, unfortunately to some owners this means to fight.

Then the poor dogs get the bad name because of bad ownership.

It's so unfair. People open your eyes look at these beautiful animals and see them for who they really are and not what 'some' people want them to be.

BHS staff unsure over closure date

BY NICHOLAS BIEBER
nicholas.bieber@hpnorthants.co.uk

Northampton's two BHS stores are expected to have shut their doors by the end of next month, but staff are still being left in the cold over a specific date which has not yet been set.

A staff member told the Northants Herald & Post the Abington Street and St James Retail Park branches will be closed by August 20 but that the store's administrators Duff and Phelps have not yet announced a closure date.

More than 11,000 employees across the country, including dozens in Northampton, found out in April they were going to lose their jobs after the department store chain collapsed into administration.

Around 20 stores were the first to close last week-end, with a further 30 closing this Saturday.

The remaining 114 branches will be shut by August 20.

SHUTTING: The Abington Street store is one of two in the town

Another staff member told the H&P the St James Retail Park store already has 'hardly any stock left', meaning it could close at the end of this month or early next month.

Both shops in Northampton are currently holding closing down sales, along with all the other BHS stores across the country. The Abington Street store forms part of the Grosvenor Shopping Centre and recently opened a section selling food as part of efforts to attract more customers.

And in 2013, BBC Radio One breakfast show presenter Nick Grimshaw paid a surprise visit to the St James Retail Park store - during which he brought along a producer who performed a rap live on stage.

FRUSTRATED: David Smith had hoped to relax at the event with his dog, partner and her daughter

Blind man's guide dog refused entry

BY NICHOLAS BIEBER
nicholas.bieber@hpnorthants.co.uk

A blind man was refused entry to Santa Pod Raceway because he has a guide dog.

David Smith, 50, of Hackleton, told the H&P managers refused to allow him to enter the VW festival last Sunday with labradoodle Darcy.

He claims Santa Pod told him it was concerned about the animal's safety - due to the noise from the drag races and stunt displays.

But Mr Smith, who is an equality and diversity officer for Unison, says the action was illegal under the equality act. He also insists he was going to stay in the caravan park and 'not go anywhere near the racetrack'.

Mr Smith said: "I was frustrated with the manager - nothing I was going to say would change his mind. I had planned to just chill out in the park with Darcy - but unfortunately we were denied that because of their ill informed policies."

He added: "I think they believe they're trying to do the right thing."

The venue says it reluctantly denied Mr Smith entry and its present policy was compiled a number of years ago after carrying out research work including consultation with the RSPCA.

Santa Pod commercial manager Caroline Holden said: "We are very sympathetic to those who need assistance dogs and we work very hard to address all equality and diversity issues. However, in relation to noise and fumes, drag racing is a unique motorsport. It would be unforgivable for us to be responsible for hurting an animal which could ultimately lead to the disabled owner being left without the dog that is essential to, in some cases, their survival."

Mr Smith says he now hopes to sit down with the managers and change the policies so that guide dogs are exempt from the rules.

The case of... taking a gig 'n' bite out of the gig economy

Lawrence John

To find more blogs and video diaries from Northants Herald & Post journalist Lawrence John visit our website.
Follow him on Twitter @LawrenceJohnHP

There is a quote attributed to Ozzy Osbourne in which he says: "You gotta be really careful what you bite off. Don't bite off more than you can chew. It's a dangerous world."

If you bite off more than you can chew without food going everywhere then I think we can assume you have reached a safe bite-off zone. Anything after that is having bitten off more than you can safely chew.

Can you take a byte out of gigabyte? If so how much can you bite? In the computer world you can take a fair chunk out of gigabyte as one gigabyte is 1000000000bytes. But what happens if you are hungry and need to eat more than a gigabyte?

Then I am sure you can turn to the gig economy. This is where I can see your eyes glazing over as you wonder what in the name of Sam Hill

I am taking about. The gig economy is set to be worth £20 billion in the UK by 2020.

What is the gig economy?, I hear you ask. . . the gig economy is the market whereby customers use certain apps on their tablets or phones to get assistance be it a general handy man to help out around the house, a nail manicure sent to your door, ordering a takeaway, or getting an Uber Cab to take you where you want to go. Uber is one of the largest in the gig economy.

The gig economy can be defined as thus: "A gig economy is an environment in which temporary positions are common and organisations contract with independent workers for short-term engagements."

I always thought an independent contractor was either someone hired by the CIA or was a contract killer. . . I wonder if there is an app for either? And do contract killers pay National Insurance contributions?

The humblebee would be a good gig economy worker as they work hard, they are independent and help pollinate flowers and plants.

A rhyme would be: "Where would we be without the bumbelly bee?" Not on par with Keats but succinct and apposite. And before any GCSE religious studies students ask, Jesus didn't have 12 apprentices at the last supper.

Boobs and Brass

BY LAWRENCE JOHN

lawrence.john@hpnorthants.co.uk

For the past 10 years an all-female brass band called Boobs and Brass has been hitting the right fundraising notes.

The group, which was formed in Northamptonshire, has helped raise £166,000 towards breast cancer research and a further £21,000 for a number of different charities including Help for Heroes and The Royal British Legion.

The idea for an all-female brass band was born in 2006 by friends Jane Nicholls and Margaret Betts.

Jane said it had always been her dream to be a member of an all-female band but had only ever got as far as thinking about it.

But at that moment it seemed less of a dream and more of a reality.

They got 40 other female band players from across the county and decided they should arrange a concert.

This one-off event was held at St Peter and St Paul's Church in Kettering to raise money for charity.

The good causes the two pals selected were the Ophthalmic Department of

PINK LADIES: The all-female members of Boobs and Brass

Kettering General Hospital - where Jane works - and Breast Cancer Campaign - Researching the Cure.

The duo and the band, which was now called Boobs and Brass, raised £5,000.

It was after this success they decided there could be more opportunities for the women members and it was agreed the band should play on. Since this tentative start Boobs and Brass has grown bigger than any dream and there are now three Boobs and Brass all-female bands; one in Yorkshire, one in the South East of England and the other in the Midlands.

The group has gone from being a band dressed in a variety of multi-coloured band jackets to a band who

Speaking about Boobs and Brass, Mrs Betts, who lives in Thorpe Waterville, said: "The main aim behind setting up the band was giving girls of all ages and ability the chance to play in a band."

"We are not professionals but we have some very good players and even if one of the girls is nervous we always pair them with a better player so they will have more confidence."

"I would like to think Boobs and Brass will keep going for as long as possible."

"We do not have a committee, we prefer just to come up with an idea or a plan and make it happen."

"It does take a lot of hard work to organise but when we see what we have achieved it all makes it worthwhile."

"What is good is I have heard from women in Norway, Sweden, France, Holland and New Zealand who all want to establish a Boobs and Brass band."

CCTV released in surgery theft

Police have released a CCTV image of two men who may be able to assist in an investigation into an alleged burglary which took place at a medical centre.

The incident took place on July 19 between 5.30pm and 5.50pm when offenders are believed to have entered the staff only area of The Mounts Medical Centre in Campbell Street, Northampton, and stolen keys from the offices. Anyone with information should call police on 101.

Football club facing an uncertain future

BY LAWRENCE JOHN

lawrence.john@hpnorthants.co.uk

A 149-year-old football club fears eviction from their home 'could signal the end'.

Wellingborough Town, which shares the Dog & Duck ground with AFC Rushden & Diamonds, said they are at risk after the landlord invoked a clause in the lease which will force them to leave the site by May 31 next year.

While AFC Rushden &

Diamonds are looking to secure an alternative ground share, the Doughboys believe it could cause the club to fold.

Mark Darnell, joint chairman of Wellingborough, said: "Wellingborough Town Football Club has been in existence for many years and while AFC Diamonds could find another ground share it could signal the end for us."

"Going somewhere else doesn't come easy as there are costs involved in running a football club."

But he added he would be looking at every avenue to keep the club going before the end of next season.

In a joint statement the clubs said: "Both AFC R&D and WITFC are disappointed with this given the hard work which has been put into upgrading facilities at the ground by volunteers from both clubs over the last four years."

Following talks with the landlord they say 'no significant progress has been made'.

Don't just take our word for it!

54 drivers fail police drink and drug tests

BY LAWRENCE JOHN
lawrence.john@hpnorthants.co.uk

Nearly 1,000 motorists were tested by Northamptonshire Police as part of a summer campaign to track down those who break drink or drug driving laws.

The operation, which launched last month to coincide with Euro 2016, saw 48 motorists record alcohol levels above the legal limit out of 986 tested.

Ten drivers carried out drug tests with six testing positive.

The enforcement activities were carried out at varying times of day by the Safer Roads Team as part of their work to cut the number of collisions on the county's roads.

Safer Roads Officer Chris Gray said: "It is sad to see just how many motorists are still taking a risk with their own lives and the lives of others by getting behind the wheel of a car when under the influence of alcohol or drugs.

"Of the breath tests administered, 177 were carried out following collisions.

"Drivers are still failing to admit to themselves that alcohol can impair their reactions and driving judgement, and can result in extremely serious collisions."

An award-winning recycling officer has so far raised £800 for WaterAid UK after climbing Mount Snowdon with a wheelie bin strapped to his back.

On July 16 Andrew Jenkins, recycling officer for South Northamptonshire Council and Cherwell District Council, endured the five hour round trip up Snowdon.

Andrew said: "I'm really proud to have helped raise so much money for a great charity."

JUMPING FOR JOY: The trampolines span 30,000 sq ft

Trampolines to give fun a boost

BY NICHOLAS BIEBER

nicholas.bieber@hpnorthants.co.uk

A huge new trampoline arena which features zones inspired by TV shows Gladiators and Total Wipeout has now opened.

The Northants Herald & Post had a sneak peek - alongside a handful of guests including Saints rugby player Lee Dickson - to Boost Trampoline Arena before it opened at the former City Link building in Fairground Way at Riverside Business Park in Northampton.

Covering 30,000 sq ft, the indoor arena features a variety of zones including a main jump of 50 trampolines, a toddler zone, two dodgeball courts, two basketball nets for aerial 'slam dunking', and a base jump which sees people jump off a diving board into a foam pit.

Its biggest highlights are a 'wipeout zone', which is four rotating arms similar to those used on the former BBC game show Total Wipeout, and a 'joust zone' - where two competitors stand on balance beams and try to knock each other over into a foam pit with their jousts - just like you used to see on 90s TV show Gladiators.

There is also a cafe which sells food and drinks and has a viewing gallery overlooking the arena, as well as six party rooms which can be hired out for birthdays. And over the coming months the arena will introduce a dodgeball league, fitness classes and mum and toddler sessions.

Speaking about how the new arena has turned out, Alex Read - who lives in Flore and co-owns the centre with businessman Rory Dunn - said: "We are really pleased with it, it has come out really well!"

"It suits all ages and we've got a terrific choice of colours - from the pinks and yellows, contrasting with the greys. . . I think it really works. Admittedly though the colours were my wife's idea!" The trampoline park is now open to the public from 9am-9pm. It costs £10 for a one hour session, and £2 for a pair of non-stick socks which must be worn.

BOUNCE: There's plenty to suit all ages

Perfect place for a bake-off

IF Paul Hollywood is the king of bakers, then Mary Berry is the queen of cakes and however ridiculous this may sound to some people, the BBC's flagship Wednesday evening programme The Great British Bake-Off has made recipe royalty of them.

Mary Berry was the most accomplished food TV presenter and writer of the lot when the GBBO first launched in 2010. She had already published 75 cookery books and hosted several television series for the BBC and Thames Television including Mary Berry at Home during the late 1990s, and had established her own highly successful food range with daughter Annabel.

One of her first TV appearances was presenting her own magazine-style programme called Good Afternoon which, Jamie Oliver style, was filmed at her then home in the pretty village of Penn in Buckinghamshire, near High Wycombe.

"I was not the least bit famous at the time," Mary told Saga Magazine recently. The home in question was The Red House, a Georgian property she lived in with husband Paul from 1970 to 1988.

The five-bedroom house, which saw more filming recently when it used as a location for

The Mary Berry Story on BBC2, was sold by Mary to Sir Barrie Heath DFC a Battle of Britain Spitfire pilot.

The Red House was built in 1820 and includes a main house, coach house and gardens. It's on the market with Savills Beaconsfield (01494 731950) for £3 million.

A prime minister's retreat

BACK in 2011 Prime Minister Theresa May was spotted holidaying in Cornwall and much to the surprise of many stayed at a Premier Inn rather than the four-star luxury hotels most senior politicians like to frequent.

It was certainly not the style of one of her predecessors, William Gladstone, who liked to holiday at his brother's opulent Scottish estate complete with a castle, 21 acres of gardens, a trout fishery, grouse moors and forests totalling 6,228 acres.

Gladstone, who served as Prime Minister four times between 1868 and 1894, loved the Fasque Estate and visited as often as he could.

The Fasque Estate was bought by the Gladstone family in 1829 and has remained in the family until now. The current owner, Charles Gladstone, rarely visits the estate and instead live in Flintshire in Wales where he runs an annual music, food, drink and culture festival founded with singer Cerys Matthews. He also operates an online vintage furniture and clothing store.

"Fasque has been part of our family for generations and we are very sad to let it go," says Charles. "In particular, I am immensely proud of the work we have done to Balbegno Castle. But we do not live there and cannot do justice to it or the estate."

"We feel the time has come to move on and allow a new owner to take it on and nurture it in a way we are unable to do."

The Fasque Estate, which is currently operated as an events venue, is to be auctioned by Strutt & Parker (0131 226 2500). The company says it is being sold off either as a whole with a price tag of £9m or as 28 separate lots including 32 properties. The main house on the estate, Balbegno Castle, has six bedrooms and a great hall and is for sale at £595,000.

French home where Dickie got away from everything

When Sir Richard 'Dickie' Attenborough died two years ago he was remembered fondly as a titan on the cinematic world famed for his roles in The Great Escape, Jurassic Park and The Miracle of 34th Street. He was equally well known for his directorial efforts too including A Bridge Too Far, Gandhi, A Chorus Line and Cry Freedom.

But when not on set Attenborough's favourite spot was a four-bedroom house with a swimming pool in the pretty village of Chateaufort-Grasse, 25 kilometres from Cannes on the Cote d'Azur.

There he entertained his many famous friends including Sir John Mills, Sir Roger Moore and brother Sir David.

Attenborough bought the property during the late 1970s on the advice of actor Dirk Bogarde who lived next door but he had always been a fan of France prior to buying the property and had often taken his family to the Cap d'Antibes for summer holidays.

"Lord Attenborough kept the property quite simple, contrary to his more luxurious properties in Richmond and Scotland," say Alexander Kraft of agent Sotheby's International Realty France. "He went there four or five times every year to get away from the hustle of London and Hollywood and lead a simpler, more uncomplicated life."

The house, which is being sold lock-stock by the Attenborough family, includes the furniture and other belongings he bought for the property. His ashes were scattered in the property's ten acres of grounds, which offer uninterrupted views of the countryside and the Mediterranean.

GOSSIP

Sell it to me one more time

BRITNEY Spears is riding high at the moment following the announcement that she is to extend her Las Vegas residency for another two years.

The 35-year-old singer of hits such as Toxic and Baby One More Time, enjoyed immense success during the late 1990s with two hit albums but later endured two failed marriages and struggles with drugs. She has since enjoyed success as a judge on the US version of X-Factor, as well as several well-received albums and, most recently her Las Vegas show entitled Britney Spears: Piece of Me.

But it has been her penchant for glamorous houses that has often also kept Britney in the headlines, as much as her personal and musical endeavours.

Recently this has included the purchase of a $7.4 million neoclassical Italianate villa in the Thousand Oaks area of California to the west of Los Angeles and an $8.9 million ten-bedroom mock Tudor mansion in nearby Hidden Hills. The singer also has homes in Malibu, an apartment in New York and owns her mother's Louisiana home.

And one of Spears' former homes in Los Angeles is now on the market. It's a five-bedroom house that the singer lived in until 2003 and then sold to Clueless actress Brittany Murphy.

The property, which overlooks Sunset strip and is within a gate community, gained notoriety when Murphy died at the property in 2009.

The house is on the market with local agent Rodeo Realty (+1 310 724 7100) for $18.4 million.

Gillian's latest role has a few storeys

GILLIAN Anderson's is famous for both her leading role in the 1990s TV drama The X-Files as well as her more recent appearance in the hit BBC police drama The Fall in which she and a wardrobe of silk blouses co-starred with Jamie Dornan in the police drama.

But the 47-year-old is equally busy in another role. Anderson has done up 12 homes so far including several in London's Clerkenwell neighbourhood plus previous makeovers that range from a townhouse in Notting Hill to a 13-bedroom villa in Sri Lanka.

She's also not afraid to spend big on her properties – the actress paid £190,000 to refurbish a five-storey house near Russell Square, before moving to her current address in 2012.

"What generally happens is I work on the house I'm going to be living in," she recently told Stylist Magazine. "I fall in love with it and think I'm going to live there for a long time but get bored and decide to move on. My Sri Lankan property was completely different. It was bought as an investment, somewhere my family could go on holiday a couple of times a year, or that could be turned into a boutique hotel."

Boredom with her current house has clearly set in once more. Anderson is selling her latest home, a six-bedroom Georgian terraced house, again in Clerkenwell, for £3.9 million.

It's a double-fronted, has six bedrooms as well as a roof terrace and staff accommodation.

Lesley's tips for some functional accessorising:

- Be brave The beauty of adding small decorative pieces is you can always change them up if you decide you don't like them.
- Think practically Otherwise these new additions will soon clutter up the home.
- Be playful Try to find new uses for old objects.
- Be colourful Pick accessories with bold colours to become focal points.
- Make it personal Choose accessories that reflect your personality.

Use throws to add texture, layers and warmth as well as protecting your furniture from unexpected spills. Check out the collection from www.brostecopenhagen.com

How to make your interiors both beautiful and functional

There's no denying that a home has to be functional. After all, what use is a beautiful bathroom if there is nowhere to keep your toothbrush?

But functional and beautiful are no longer mutually exclusive when it comes to homewares and more often than not it's the little details – the decorative accessories – that can make a big impact on your property's overall look while serving a really useful purpose.

Mirror mirror on the wall...

It goes without saying that the home should have at least one mirror – if only to check your appearance before heading out.

A well-placed mirror can also create the illusion of space which is ideal in smaller rooms such as an entrance hallway or cloakroom. Hang it in the right place and they also reflect the natural source of light to create a more airy environment.

But with the wealth of mirrors now available they can be both decorative and functional. Choose a large statement piece and it will take centre stage in an entire room; or create a bespoke feature wall by hanging a selection of small mirrors close together in a unique pattern.

Vase attacks

What was once simply a receptacle for flowers have now turned into a decorative accessory in their own right.

Vases are available in a multitude of shapes and sizes and are perfect for cementing a colour scheme. Be bold and leave them bare or if flowers aren't your thing but you want to truly define a space try filling with different items; shells and sand in the bathroom, coffee beans in the kitchen or fairy lights to create an ambient source of lighting.

And why not try putting them somewhere different? Choose three varying examples and place them directly on the floor to draw attention to a particular spot in the room or pop by a mirror to reflect the vase and its contents.

Bowl-ed over

It's hard to avoid clutter in the home but it is easy to organise it.

Decorative bowls and boxes are a great addition to up the style stakes in any room but they can also be used to store those everyday items that have a habit of cluttering up surfaces.

Choose three different size bowls and use them to stow keys, money and even household bills you haven't got round to filing. In the bedroom why not pop a beautiful box on top of your nightstand to store all those non-essentials that somehow find their way there such as pens, jewellery and books.

And forget crystal fruit bowls – echo the rest of your home in the kitchen by following suit and using a feature bowl to store fruit, vegetables or even drinking straws.

Throw down

Throws are an extremely versatile addition to those rooms you like to relax in – primarily the living area and the bedroom.

While their basic function may be to add a little warmth they are fantastic for adding a new layer in the décor stakes.

They can quite literally be thrown across a couch for a draped, cascading effect and be used to add another element of colour.

On a more practical note they can protect cushions and seating from spills as well as update tired old furnishings.

Once more unto the breach with Henry V

BY LAWRENCE JOHN

lawrence.john@hpnorthants.co.uk

The Masque Theatre's annual 'Shakespeare in the Courtyard' play this summer is Henry V.

With more than 20 actors dressed in 15th century period costume, Masque hope to bring out the sense of Kingship that Henry establishes and the anticipation as he prepares to invade France in order to gain back his land. All of this is given a running commentary by Mark Farey as 'Chorus'.

Director, Rob Kendall, said: "Certainly the open-courtyard of Abington Museum lends itself very much to the flurry of battle and the more domestic moments of the play."

This year is exactly 601 years since the actual battle of Agincourt which features so much in this play.

The tale also contains the famous lines of 'Once more unto the breach dear friends...' and 'We band of brothers...' both of which are uttered by King Henry (played by Scott Bradley) as he leads his troops into battle first at Honfleur and then at Agincourt.

Henry V will be performed from today until Saturday, August 6 at 7.30pm, excluding Sunday, July, 31, in Abington Park Museum courtyard.

Tickets cost £10, £9 concessions, £6 for children up to 16 and a family ticket (two adults/ two children) is £28.

Tickets are only available on the 'door' each night of the performance.

When things go wrong with law and order issues we call the police.

But who do we call when things go wrong with the police? This is the question raised in a Frontline current affairs programme to be shown on PBS America in the UK at 9pm on August 25.

The documentary examines the allegations of police abuses in Newark, New Jersey, and asks how to rebuild trust between the police and the community.

An investigation by the US Department of Justice in 2014 said Newark Police has insufficient legal reasons for stopping black people.

The programme is an eye opener into how Newark Police police. It will be a culture shock for a British viewer with the attitudes of both the police to the public and vice versa.

The one thing I thought which shaped everyone's attitude was the gun. The cops have them and will use them as a threat to fire or the criminals who use them against the cops. This is the one element which builds tension and mistrust.

MOTORING NEWS

Warning to bargain bikers

BY CHRIS RUSSON

MORE than a third of used motorbikes, scooters and mopeds up for sale in Britain have dodgy pasts, according to new data from a leading vehicle information company.

The Triumph Sprint tops the list of bikes which have been written off while almost 10 per cent of Yamaha Cygnus scooters offered for sale had been stolen.

The survey by My Car Check revealed that of the bikes it examined in the 12 months up to the end of May 2016, 38 per cent had either been written off, stolen or had outstanding finance.

Each model included in the study had been checked out at least 20 times.

Roger Powell, the head of My Car Check, said: "The average value of motorcycles, scooters and mopeds we checked in the last year was £3,853 for private sales and £4,379 for retail. For that money you can pick up a fantastic machine, but there are pitfalls to be avoided."

He said that all two-wheel bargain hunters should check out a bike's history before buying, especially with the number of previously damaged machines on the market.

"Even leaving the safety aspect aside, a previously written-off bike should cost a lot less than a like-for-like non-accident-damaged one," said Mr Powell.

"The popular Triumph Sprint ST 1050 sports tourer motorbike was most likely to have been previously written-off (47.83 per cent of those checked), followed by the commuter favourite Honda CBF 125 M-D (45.45 per cent of those checked).

"Bikes with high end aftermarket parts can be a bargain as the cost of these add-ons is often not reflected in the sale price.

However, it is vital to establish if they are honest upgrades or whether they've been fitted to conceal crash damage."

He added that as with car sales, outstanding finance was also another danger with Yamaha models most likely to have debt against them.

"The fact that Yamaha models such as the WR 125 X and YZF R1 09 are more likely to have debt secured against them is a backhanded compliment to their hugely successful finance packages.

"The crux for used buyers is this: If you buy a bike with outstanding finance it could be repossessed by the legal owner, the loan provider, leaving you out of pocket.

"Scooters are targeted by thieves due to the ease with which they can be picked up and shoved into the back of a van."

Mazda CX-3 2.0 2WD Sport Nav

Take a look inside. . .

BY MIKE TORPEY

STYLE and technology are a compelling combination in today's new car market.

So too is crossover cool in a compact package - and all are attributes Mazda has put together in the striking shape of its supermini-based CX-3.

The plan all along was to take the SUV scene by storm and the Japanese manufacturer lined up a big battalion from day one last summer with an 18-strong line-up.

The CX-3 comes via a choice of 11 petrol and seven diesel variants, all featuring the brand's fuel-saving SKYACTIV technology plus a swathe of standard kit.

Staying a step ahead of your rivals though is all-important and Mazda has upped the ante with techno treats.

So stuff like the Japanese company's i-ACTIVSENSE safety systems are on every model along with a seven-inch touch screen, DAB radio, multi-function steering wheel and Bluetooth.

What instantly grabs the attention is the Mazda's coupe-like style - it looks larger than you might expect from a small SUV while displaying a sense of speed with its flowing lines.

Opt for some of the vibrant paint jobs with chrome side strips and 18-inch machined alloy wheels and the CX-3 really looks the business. There's a choice of five trim grades, with prices from £17,595 to £24,695, an attractive cabin, two-tone leather upholstery and high quality sound system.

It's a tight squeeze for three passengers across the back, though the centre rear position is comfortable, and while the boot is on the small side the rear seats do split and fold 60/40.

The most frugal engine on offer is the 1.5-litre diesel, which can return a potential 70 miles per gallon, but the 2.0-litre petrol units have been proving more popular. Of the pair, developing either 120 or 150ps, the lower powered version with front-wheel drive provides ample punch and reasonable economy. We recorded an average return of 44mpg over 350 miles of mixed urban and motorway driving in a car that feels spirited, poised and well balanced. That even the most basic models come well kitted out is an attraction in itself, while Sport Nav grade brings items you don't generally find in this category of car like a head-up display and LED headlights.

Nissan edging towards hands-off driving By: Ian Johnson

THERE is a tsunami-like wave of technology heading towards us from Japan that will change the way we drive forever. It emanates from Nissan which has announced that its new Serena, scheduled to go on sale in Japan in late August, will come equipped with the company's ProPILOT autonomous drive technology, offering convenience and peace of mind during 'highway mobility'. ProPILOT is autonomous drive technology designed for general road use in single-lane traffic. Nissan is the first Japanese automaker to introduce a combination of steering, accelerator and braking that can be operated in full automatic mode, easing driver workload in heavy traffic and long commutes. Employing advanced image-processing technology, the car's ProPILOT system understands road and traffic situations and executes precise steering enabling the vehicle to perform naturally. The technology is claimed to be user-friendly, thanks to a switch on the steering wheel that allows the driver to activate and deactivate the system. There's also a driver display showing the operating status. The accelerator, brakes and steering are controlled based on information obtained through a mono camera equipped with advanced-image processing software. The ProPILOT camera can quickly recognize in three-dimensional depth both preceding vehicles and lane markers. Once activated, ProPILOT automatically controls the distance between the vehicle and the preceding vehicle, using a speed preset by the driver (between approximately 20 and 60mph). The system also keeps the car in the right place on the road by reading lane markers and controlling the steering, even through curves. If a car in front stops, the system automatically applies the brakes to bring the vehicle to a full stop. After coming to a full stop, the vehicle will remain in place even if the driver's foot is off the brake pedal. When ready to resume driving, ProPILOT is activated when the driver touches the switch again or lightly presses the accelerator. The system fitted on the Serena was developed especially for highway driving conditions in Japan, but watch out because it is on the way here. Nissan has already announced that a version will be introduced into other vehicles, including the Qashqai in Europe in 2017. There are also plans for the technology to be introduced in the U.S. and China. Nissan says it intends for a multi-lane autonomous driving system which will enable automatic lane changes to be ready for introduction in 2018 while autonomous driving on urban roads and at intersections is due for launch in 2020.

Sprinter in premium form By: Ian Johnson

THE Mercedes-Benz Sprinter has always been a top choice and now it comes in a special limited edition version for retail customers. The new Sprinter Premium Edition follows the success of the Sprinter 20th Anniversary edition last year. Priced at £379 per month, the new edition builds on the already impressive Sprinter standard specification with additional features to enhance comfort, functionality and vehicle appearance. Available for 2-Series (3.0 tonne GVW) and 3-Series (3.5 tonne GVW) panel van models across all engines, the Sprinter Premium Edition comes with a impressive specification. Included are an integrated Becker MAP PILOT satellite navigation system; chrome effect radiator grille; Audio 15 colour screen infotainment unit; TEMPOMATIC air conditioning and a comfort driver's seat with inner armrest. In addition there is 'Premium Edition' badging on the rear of the van, outside temperature indicator and full wheel trims. A useful feature is Crosswind Assist, which supports the driver in strong, gusty side winds through automatic brake interventions. Other driving aids include an adaptive brake light, to indicate a critical braking manoeuvre, Adaptive ESP, the dynamic control system that also takes vehicle load into account, and Rescue Assist QR code stickers, which gives emergency services critical information at the scene of an accident. Every Mercedes-Benz van also comes with free MobiloVan 30-year free roadside assistance cover across the UK and Europe, as well as a three-year, unlimited mileage warranty, and Service Plan from £10 per month (excluding VAT, based on two services over two years) to ensure maximum uptime for these hardworking vans. The Sprinter has also scooped the highly-prized 'Fleet Van of the Year' accolade at the Motor Transport Awards for the ninth year – smashing its own record in the number of times this honour has been claimed by Mercedes-Benz Vans. The Sprinter emerged victorious with its latest makeover giving the van a fresh new look, improved driving capability and a host of new safety features.

PICTURE PERFECT CRASH RECONSTRUCTION By: Ian Johnson

RECONSTRUCTION of road accident scenes has never been an easy job – but change is on the way that could offer a new solution. Roke Manor Research (Roke) has just demonstrated the world's first viable 3D 'black box' technology for vehicles, using just a single dashboard camera. Fitted to an autonomous Toyota Prius, the device demonstrated how data captured via vision processing technology could be used to provide a precise 3D reconstruction following a road incident. It is now set to offer insurers, drivers and, in the case of autonomous vehicles, manufacturers independent evidence of what happened. This will not just lead to safer vehicles but also help to build public trust in driverless vehicles. Early iterations of this technology were first developed by Roke for soldiers in research undertaken for the British government's Defence Science and Technology Laboratory (Dstl). Over the past year, Roke – which is based in Romsey in Hampshire – has been developing and miniaturising the technology with the help of funding from Innovate UK. David Cole, managing director of Roke, said: "The funding from Innovate UK is essential in helping Roke remain at the forefront of autonomous sensing technology. With 60 years of research under our belt, the money invested has the benefit of world-class engineers with experience across the defence, commercial and national security sectors." Unlike current dashcams, the Roke technology uses computer vision algorithms to enable the precise position and orientation of any vehicle – car, bike, lorry or autonomous vehicle. This allows for near-perfect 3D reconstruction of any accident to be created even if the vehicle loses complete control. With further investment, Roke says the technology will not just be limited to accident reconstruction but could also prove useful for sports coaching or meet wider needs in the transport industry.

MERC'S LATEST LOAD-LUGGER PRICED

By: David Whinyates

PRICES for the latest Mercedes-Benz E-Class Estate will start from just under £38,000 and, although the company has already opened the order books, only a limited range is available for the time being.

The initial offerings are the four-cylinder diesel powered E 220 d SE at £37,935 and the £40,430 E 220 d AMG Line. The six-cylinder E 350 d and petrol 3.0-litre V6 Mercedes-AMG E 43 will join the range later this year with prices due to be revealed in October. The E 220 d features Mercedes-Benz's all-new four-cylinder two-litre turbo-charged engine, which produces 194 hp and 400 Nm. A 9G-Tronic automatic gearbox comes as standard. It offers a combined fuel consumption of 67.3 mpg and CO2 levels from just 109 g/km, and can power the car to 62 mph from standstill in just 7.7 seconds.

As standard, SE models come with a Garmin navigation system, Agility Control suspension; Easy-Pack automatic powered tail gate, Parking Pilot including Parktronic and reversing camera, chrome roof rails, 64-colour selectable LED interior lighting, Keyless-Go starting function, heated front seats, DAB radio and 17-inch alloys with a five-spoke design. For an extra £2,495, AMG Line adds AMG exterior styling with 19-inch alloy wheels in titanium grey, upper dashboard finished in Artico leather, black ash wood trim, brushed stainless steel AMG sports pedals with black rubber studs and a three-spoke AMG steering wheel wrapped in Nappa leather. Various trim, convenience, safety and driver assistance packages will be available at extra cost.

DANGERS OF DRIVING IN THE DARK By: Chris Russon

WITH the holiday getaway fast approaching Spanish car maker SEAT has issued safety guidelines to remind motorists of potential hazards when travelling at night. As many families opt to travel through the night when roads are quieter, SEAT is highlighting the increased risk of accidents due to reduced visibility and the onset of driver fatigue, especially when driving on the Continent. The company says that night-time accidents in Europe cause 37 per cent of all driving casualties.

To make journeys as safe as possible, SEAT suggests:

Turn on your low beams at dusk for better visibility and to be seen. You must drive with low beams at night, when it is raining or with poor visibility. The main beam should be used whenever possible, to avoid dazzling oncoming traffic. Some vehicles are equipped with an automatic dipped beam system that turns the lights on and off depending on exterior light conditions. Some 90 per cent of the information needed to drive is processed through our sense of sight, and as visual perception decreases at night it takes longer to identify pedestrians, animals or traffic signals. In these cases, LED headlights are a great ally, as they generate better light quality than halogen bulbs and the light they emit is very similar to daylight, which greatly improves visibility.

Adapt your speed to be able to brake within the headlamp range. It is advisable to drive slower than you normally would during the day. For example, the recommended speed when driving with low beams in Spain is 55mph.

Maintain a safe distance. Leave a margin of no less than three seconds between you and the car in front of you.

Recognise early signs of fatigue such as if your eyelids get heavy. A tell-tale sign is if you have trouble staying within your lane or if it is hard to remember where you have driven in the last mile. Drowsiness affects your reflexes and the effect is similar to driving with a blood alcohol level of 0.5 grams per litre. At the first signs of drowsiness it is important to stop and rest or sleep until you can safely continue on your journey. Some vehicles are equipped with a drowsiness detector that identifies when the driver is tired and displays a warning sign on the instrument panel that recommends taking a break.

ENGINE UPGRADE FOR ALFA ROMEO GIULIETTA By: Mike Torpey

ALFA ROMEO has upgraded the engine range in its stylish Giulietta line-up for better economy and lower emissions - but prices remain the same. While the revamp is extended to both petrol and diesel units, business drivers in particular will take notice of the 1.6 JTDM-2 diesel courtesy of a reduction in emissions from 104g/km to 99g/km. That's thanks to the addition of a variable-geometry turbocharger and low rolling-resistance tyres, which results in a one percent benefit-in-kind reduction to 17 per cent and free annual Road Fund Licence. The revision also brings a boost in power from 105 to 120bhp resulting in the Giulietta's top speed rising to 121mph and its acceleration improving by 1.3 seconds to 0-62 in 10.0 seconds. At the same time, the 1.6 JTDM-2 has the potential to return an average 74.3mpg, a notable improvement on the current engine's 70.6. Alfa says all engines bar the recently-introduced 2.0 JTDM-2 150PS turbodiesel 150bhp boast improved emissions and economy, so there's a one per cent BiK cut on all from the entry-level 1.4 Turbo petrol 120bhp to the 1750Tbi 240bhp TCT unit that powers the high performance Quadrifoglio Verde version. And the 1.4 MultiAir Turbo petrol 150 and 170bhp engines slip into a lower emissions band, reducing the on the road price by £130 and annual running costs further. Pricing starts at £18,450 for the 1.4 TB 120bhp Progression model while the Business Edition range, which features stuff like a 6.5-inch touchscreen Uconnect info system with voice activated sat-nav, parking sensors automatic lights and wipers, alloy wheels and metallic paint as standard, start from £19,080 for the 1.6 JTDM-2 120bhp turbodiesel.

How to improve a car's performance by 70%

The effectiveness consultancy Benchmarking recently analysed what happens when companies include press advertising in their media mix.

They looked at more than 500 econometric models, covering a five-year period and, as the table here shows, they found that adding newspapers dramatically increases the effectiveness of other media.

In the automotive sector they reviewed companies that ranged from the big spending German goliaths of the industry to medium sized independent carmakers.

And they discovered that by adding newspaper advertising to their campaigns, they cranked up their effectiveness by over 70%.

Increased effectiveness using newspapers

Retail	Automotive	Finance
2.8x	1.7x	5.7x

So, whatever the size your business or budget, get motoring into newspapers.

UNSTOPPABLE FORCE: Ben Duckett

Duckett dazzles again with Lions

Northamptonshire's Ben Duckett struck the ninth-highest List A score in history in the England Lions' thumping victory over Sri Lanka A at Canterbury on Monday.

Duckett finished what has been an exceptional series for the 21-year-old with an astonishing 220 not out off 131 balls, which included 29 fours and six sixes.

He also shared an unbroken partnership of 367 for the second wicket with Kent's Daniel Bell-Drummond, who was to finish on 171 not out off 139 balls on his home ground as the Lions posted a massive 425-1 from their 50 overs.

The stand was just five runs short of the List A world record, which was set by Chris Gayle and Marlon Samuels for West Indies against Zimbabwe during the 2015 World Cup.

Not surprisingly, Sri Lanka A didn't come close, as they were bowled out for 285 in reply, with Sussex's George Garton doing the damage with 4-43.

Duckett has been in stunning form recently, after hammering 163 not out against Pakistan for the Lions against Pakistan A at Cheltenham last Tuesday and followed that up with 61 against Sri Lanka A at Wantage Road.

He was released to play in Northants' match against Yorkshire in the T20 Blast last Friday, where he was to strike an eye-catching 51 off 23 balls in what was a losing effort at Headingley.

Duckett returned to county duty again this week for Northants' One-Day Cup matches against Warwickshire and Worcestershire, making scores of 46 and 86.

NO EXCUSES: Captain Alex Wakely accepted Northants were well beaten at Warwickshire

Huge opening stand costs Northants in heavy defeat

CRICKET

Warwickshire Bears 257-2 beat Northamptonshire Steelbacks 254-9 by eight wickets

BY CIARAN THOMAS

sport@lismedia.co.uk

Northamptonshire captain Alex Wakely admitted his side were short with the bat and not quite on it with the ball as they suffered an eight wicket defeat to Warwickshire in the Royal London One Day Cup at Edgbaston on Tuesday.

Despite Wakely top scoring with 70, and knocks off 50 by Josh Cobb and 46 from Ben Duckett, the Steelbacks innings struggled for momentum throughout as they stumbled their way to 254-9.

It was a total Warwickshire comfortably knocked off, as openers William Porterfield and Sam Hain shared an opening stand of 180.

Wakely felt a score around 280 would have been competitive and said his bowlers hadn't used the new ball as effectively as they could have, but gave his side credit for the way they fought to the end.

"We were well beaten today and we weren't quite on it," he said. "I think at the end there it showed we were 20, 30 runs light with the bat."

"I thought we did alright to get 250 but we lost three key wickets towards the 42nd over and that meant we couldn't have the power down the order to get those extra runs."

"We weren't quite on it when we came out with the new ball, we knew the new ball was going to be key, but we didn't quite hit our straps, we gave them too much width and too many short balls. We tried various things but we were outplayed, those two openers did bat very well."

"A few teams I've played in at Northants in last ten years would have rolled over but we kept it going to the end there - you never know there might have been a funny collapse and we thought the run rate could come into factor at the end of the week."

Wakely's side had an immediate chance to bounce back when they face Worcestershire at New Road yesterday, but having slipped down to fifth in the North Group, they knew only two wins from their remaining two games, with Derbyshire at home to follow on Sunday, will likely be enough to qualify for the quarter finals.

Wakely said: "It's knockout games basically for us now, each of these games are our quarter final, to earn a quarter final, so we'll rest up and come into tomorrow and try and be on our A game. The last game at home [to Durham] was about as perfect as we can be and we'll try and do the same."

"We know Worcester are a decent team but I still feel our white ball teams can beat anyone. On our day we're a very tough team to beat and we've got to make sure we turn up and perform in all aspects of the game."

A full report from Northants' game at Worcestershire can be found on our website.

MOBILE POWER: Sion Bennett in action during the Mobbs Memorial Match

Bennett looking to be the perfect fit for Saints

RUGBY SEVENS

Flankers are custom built for rugby sevens according to Northampton Saints starlet Sion Bennett, and that is why he cannot wait to get stuck in to Singha Premiership Rugby 7s Series action this Friday night.

Northampton welcome rivals Harlequins, Saracens, and Gloucester Rugby to Franklin's Gardens, with two spots in the Singha 7s Series Final at the Ricoh Arena on Sunday August 7 up for grabs.

Bennett need look no further than Teimana Harrison for inspiration at Northampton - two years on from taking part in the Singha 7s, the New Zealand-born flanker earned his first cap for England earlier this summer.

And while Saints enjoy an embarrassment of riches in the back-row, particularly after the arrival of France international Louis Picamoles this summer, 22-year-old Bennett, captain for the night, is hoping the 7s can be the stage where he makes his claim for a first-team debut this year.

"Back-rowers are the link between the forwards and the backs, so you've got to have the best of both worlds, and that can make flankers good for 7s rugby," said Bennett.

"So hopefully I can go out there, do my best, and show what I've got. The competition is also a shop window for the coaches to see what they've got at the club, and there is of course massive competition in my position - Louis coming in has just added even more."

"I had some 7s experience when I was a little bit younger, both with Wales 7s and also with my college when we went to the Rosslyn Park tournament."

"I did the Bury St Edmunds competition last year as well and hopefully we can tear it up this time for Northampton."

Confidence booster for livewire Lawson

KEY ROLE: Lawson D'Ath performed well

Lawson D'Ath was pleased he could play a big part in Northampton Town's 2-1 victory over Wolves in their latest pre-season friendly at Sixfields on Tuesday night.

The winger had a hand in both of the Cobblers' goals, as it was his cross that picked out Harry Beautyman for the hosts' equaliser, before his penetrating run into the area led to him winning a penalty, which was dispatched by Marc Richards for the winner.

It capped what was an effective performance from the 23-year-old, who wasn't quite able to replicate the form from his first season at the club during last year's successful promotion campaign.

D'Ath said: "Having a hand in the two goals is a good thing for me, no matter what the game is, pre-season or in the league, so it's a good confidence boost."

"I've got through 90 minutes today and I know my fitness levels are improving day by day and that's also a plus side for me. Hopefully I get another 90 minutes on Saturday and that will put me in good stead for the following week."

D'Ath is expecting a step up in intensity for Town's final friendly against Eastleigh on Saturday, where both teams will be starting to put the finishing touches on preparations for their respective campaigns.

He said: "I'm expecting a completely different game to that [against Wolves] – men's football. I suspect they'll be looking to play more direct, maybe."

"It'll be a different test, but we've had different tests each game. Obviously QPR passed the ball around, Wolves did the same and then we'll have Eastleigh probably being a bit more physical."

Northampton have been drawn alongside West Ham's academy side in the group stage of the EFL Trophy, with Coventry City and Wycombe Wanderers the other two teams making up Group D in the southern section. The Cobblers' first match against Wycombe is set to take place at Sixfields on Tuesday 30 August.

Richards makes young Wolves pay the penalty

COBBLERS

NORTHAMPTON TOWN 2
WOLVERHAMPTON WANDERERS 1

BY MATT WRIGHT
sport@nmedia.co.uk

Marc Richards struck the winner from the penalty spot as Northampton Town edged their way past a youthful but talented Wolves side in their latest pre-season friendly at Sixfields.

The Cobblers had to come from behind against the Championship side, but this was one of the more encouraging performances of the last few weeks, as Harry Beautyman bagged on his debut.

Manager Rob Page had another look at Tottenham youngster Emmanuel Sonupe, while fellow trialist Adam Chicksen, formally of MK Dons and Brighton, also started.

Wolves unfortunately decided their upcoming friendly with Premier League side Swansea this weekend was of more importance.

With most of their first teamers left at home, there weren't too many familiar names in old gold, but one of their youngsters opened the scoring after 17 minutes, as Niall Ennis finished calmly into the bottom corner.

Ennis almost had a second when he beat Aaron Phillips but David Cornell was on hand to make a good block and Northampton were to level it up eight minutes before the break.

The lively Lawson D'Ath sent in a good cross from the right that Beautyman absolutely buried with what was a terrific header into the top corner.

The Cobblers ended the first half strongly, even though it did need another good block from Cornell to deny Bright Enohakhare early in the second.

The decisive moment came when D'Ath was bundled over in the box by Ben O'Hanlon and Richards never looked like missing from the spot.

Here's what we learned from the game...

EXPERIENCE V YOUTH: Northampton's Zander Diamond found young Wolves striker Niall Ennis a lively opponent

The gaffer

Just as last week against QPR, Page went with a 4-1-4-1 formation that saw Shaun McWilliams screen a back four that had Gabriel Zakuani and Zander Diamond at the heart of it once again.

We'll have to wait until next month to find out if this is his preferred system, or whether Richards or Alex Revell will be the man up top as both were given 45 minutes.

The Cobblers were more of a threat going forward this time, with Beautyman integrating himself very well, but they did leave themselves a bit open at the back on occasion.

On the bright side

Northampton fans will have been very encouraged with what they saw from Beautyman on his first outing, as he was central to most things that were good about Town through the evening.

D'Ath posed a genuine threat throughout down the right, while McWilliams gave another glimpse into what a talented and confident player the teenager is in the holding role.

Both trialists could be pleased with their night's work with Sonupe causing problems down the left, while Chicksen steadily improved as the game wore on. Could we be seeing more of both of them?

As a whole, this was a much better attacking display from the Cobblers, even if it did take them a little while to get going.

Could be better

Aaron Phillips hasn't convinced yet at right back and so far has been caught out of position too often – the Cobblers did look more solid once he came off.

One or two struggled to get into their groove after coming on as a substitute, but that's nit-picking into what was a positive evening overall.

Man of the match - Lawson D'Ath

The winger will admit he wasn't at his best for large parts of last season, but he looked very sharp against the club he scored twice against in the League Cup a couple of years ago.

His use of the ball was good on the whole and his movement was excellent, as he often came inside off his wing, and he ended up having a hand in both Northampton goals with a terrific cross for Beautyman's equaliser and a direct run for the penalty.

Saints drawn against Tigers

Northampton Saints will come up against East Midlands rivals Leicester Tigers in the pool stage for the 2016/17 Anglo-Welsh Cup.

The competition has returned for the coming campaign after a one-year hiatus, due to the 2015 Rugby World Cup shortening the domestic season for the clubs in the Aviva Premiership.

No changes have been made to the format, with the 16 teams involved drawn into four pools and then playing against the four teams from another pool.

Northampton have been placed in the same pool as Saracens, Bath and Newport Gwent Dragons and they will all face Leicester, Gloucester, Newcastle Falcons and Welsh region the Scarlets.

Saints will begin their Anglo-Welsh campaign by making the long trip to Kingston Park, where they will face the Falcons on Sunday 6th November.

Their first home game sees them face Gloucester six days later before the competition resumes in January, with Saints going to Welford Road towards the end of that month. A tournament-record crowd of 24,000 packed into the Tigers' home ground the last time the two sides met in the Anglo-Welsh Cup in January 2015.

Northampton's final pool fixture will see the Scarlets – who they faced in last season's Champions Cup – come to Franklin's Gardens in the first weekend of February.

The dates for the last two games will be confirmed closer to the time by new broadcasters BT Sport, who have already decided its first two rounds of fixtures.

The semi-finals and final of the competition – formally known as the LV= Cup – last won by Saints in 2010 will both take place in March 2017.

GREAT START:

Manager Rob Page felt debutant Harry Beautyman brought an extra dimension to Northampton Town's attack in the 2-1 win against Wolves on Tuesday night that wasn't there against QPR last week.

Beautyman was making his first appearance for Town after signing from Peterborough last Thursday and he gave his new supporters plenty of encouragement, playing behind the centre forward.

He was able to link play between the midfield and Alex Revell effectively in the first half and was to even crown his first appearance at Sixfields with the equalising goal at Northampton came from behind against their youthful opponents from the Championship.

Page said: "We wanted to do a similar thing to what we've done against QPR and it didn't work for us, it didn't have the impact we wanted it to so we changed it to a midfield sitting then put Beatts behind Revs to start with first half.

"I thought it worked better for us getting him to play as a number ten, with his energy and enthusiasm. I had it last year [at Port Vale] with a guy called Louis Dodds, who did both sides of it really well and Beatts is exactly like him.

"He's good on the ball, you know he's going to find a pass and he's got an eye for goal, but defensively you know he's going to put the work in that we're going to need this season."

The match was the latest to see Page take a look at a couple of trialists, with former MK Dons and Brighton full back Adam Chicksen growing into the game following a sluggish start.

Page also gave a second appearance to Tottenham youngster Emmanuel Sonupe and the 20-year-old was able to have more of an impact this time in what was an improved attacking display from Northampton.

Page said: "Manny has got pedigree behind him – he's come from Tottenham, so we know there's something in him.

"I think he gets frustrated at times because he gets into some great areas and then it's the end product, the final pass or the final shot that needs work, but we're not going to rush him.

"I think since he's come in he's had a fantastic attitude and been an absolutely brilliant lad to have around the place as well.

"We're just giving him that opportunity to come and play games and he's one of those who's been in Under-21 football at a Premier League club and he wants to kick-start his career."
